COPYRIGHT AND RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials. The various state privacy acts govern the use of materials that document private individuals, groups, and corporations.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a reproduction if the document does not infringe the privacy rights of an individual, group, or corporation. These specified conditions of authorized use include:

- non-commercial and non-profit study, scholarship, or research, or teaching
- criticism, commentary, or news reporting
- as a NPS preservation or security copy
- as a research copy for deposit in another institution

If a user later uses a copy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," the user may be personally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement. This institution's permission to obtain a photographic, xerographic, digital, or other copy of a document doesn't indicate permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, sell, distribute, or prepare derivative works from this document without first obtaining permission from the copyright holder and from any private individual, group, or corporation shown or otherwise recorded.

Permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, prepare derivative works from, sell, or otherwise distribute the item must be obtained by the user separately in writing from the holder of the original copyright (or if the creator is dead from his/her heirs) as well as from any individual(s), groups, or corporations whose name, image, recorded words, or private information (e.g., employment information) may be reproduced in the source material. The holder of the original copyright isn't necessarily the National Park Service. The National Park Service is not legally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement when materials are wrongfully used after being provided to researchers for "fair use."

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if fulfillment of the order is judged in violation of copyright or federal or state privacy or publicity law.

HISTORY

Little People's Learning Center opened its doors on May 19, 1980. Little People's Learning Center (LPLC) is a non-profit early learning center providing five-day educational experiences to children ages 6 weeks - 10 years in the Yellowstone National Park community of Mammoth. Articles of Incorporation for The Little People's Learning Center were first filed with the Wyoming Secretary of State in July 1982. As stated in that document, the purpose of the Little People's Learning Center is to "provide an environment in which children, between the ages of infancy and kindergarten may learn to feel good about themselves and the world in which they live while preparing for kindergarten." It appears that the Little People's Learning Center proposed a cooperative model for the community daycare center in 2010, however it is unclear if such a model was adopted. In 2020, Little People Learning Center filed as a Domestic Non-Profit Corporation with the Montana Secretary of State.
